- One certain house in the Getreidegasse always draws particular attention: No. 9, the house in which Wolfgang Amadeus Mozart was born. Salzburg's most famous son came into this world on 27 January 1756. His family actually lived here for 26 years, from 1747 on, occupying an apartment on the third floor. With parents Leopold and Anna Maria as well as sister "Nannerl", Mozart spend his childhood and much of his youth there. In 1773, the family moved to the house we know today as the "Mozart Residence", on the Makartplatz Square.

- This gothic former monastery is just as striking today as ever. Its two towers stretch 52m into the sky. This late gothic church was constructed in the 15th century under the direction of abbot Benedikt Eck and is the second biggest church in Upper Austria. Saint Wolfgang spent a year in Mondsee in 976 as Bishop of Ratisbon and founded the pilgrim church at the Wolfgangsee lake.

The Basilika itself reached international fame as the location for the filming of the wedding scene in "The Sound of Music" with Julie Andrews and Christopher Plummer. This is the reason why more than 200,000 people visit the church every year. Pope John Paul II upgraded the church to a basilica in 2005. In 2009, the church was reopened after a huge restoration which resulted in winning the coveted title of "Austria's monument of the year".
